

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Global Intellectual Strategies Launches New Website

GIS creates a dynamic new website to better serve clients, prospects and partners

Ottawa, ON – Sept 17, 2004 – Global Intellectual Strategies (GIS), an Intellectual Property Management consulting firm, is proud to invite everyone to visit their new website as they proudly celebrate their fourth year in business.

GIS provides Intellectual Property Management Consulting Services for the start-up as well as mature company. Whether a small, medium or even large enterprise, GIS will help you profit from your IP by carefully planning and executing a total Intellectual Property Strategy.

“The new look allows people interested in GIS to learn more about our company, and what services we offer,” says Pierrette Breton, owner of GIS. “We wanted to convey warmth, a welcoming touch while at the same time make accessing and finding out about our services easier.”

In addition to providing more information, the new look provides a uniformity of appearance and structure that allows visitors to find information quickly and easily.

GIS invites you to visit their website and learn more about who they are, what they do and how they can help you profit from your Intellectual Property.
